"Coward!" she almost shricked as she spraig toward me, her face disjorted with rage and defiance.

"What devil possessed me I do not know, but quick as a flash I raised my hand and struck her in the face with all the force I could summon.

"She was such a slender little woman that she had not the strength to withstand my powerful blow. With a low, heartrending cry she sank to the floor. Almost before ane fell my somes returned. I realized what I had done, and falling on my knees beside her took her in my arms, kissed the poor bleeding lips I bad so isrutally lacerated, and with my tears dropping on her face Implored her forgiveness. She seemed completely broken. Her anger was all gone, and there was a startled, grieved look in her eyes that out me to the heart.

"She lay motiouless in my arms while I begged her to forgive ms. Then she said softly:

"It doesn't matter, dear. It was my fault as much as yoors. Wo will never let it happen again. Now go to work—you are into already."

"She said It so strangely, with such a queer look in her oyes, that I would not consent to leave her. Bot she lasted, and when she bade me goodly she said, taking my face between her hands and drawing it toward her: 'I love you with all my heart, my dariing husband. I will love you for ever and over. Hew "Degcarte" Received Their Name.
Originally "dogcarts" were used by parties of sportsmee in driving to or from the buntlog field, and there was always a box or empty space under the buck seat, into which he dogs were put when being taken to the field. Prohobly this was done in order that they might be quite fresh to begun the chase, and from it these conveyances came to be called "dogcarts."

Highwayman, Superlutendott Alexander Cummings of the Alushouse bed a thrilling experience with highwaymen Mondey night which he will not soon forget although the vilinius got nothing for their trouble.
Mr. Cummings had been to North Weymouth and was deiving home through Essex atreet at about 11 o'clock, when a continuated out from the branch and man jumped out from the fridat call grabbed the loss by the head; a serond man at the sams thus jumped for the jasm, which was an upen one, and took Mr. Cummings by the throat. A there struggle cased, and then the first man cams to the rescus of his pal. Mr. Cummings finally succeeded in getting the upper bands and grabbing his whip, broke it over their beads.

Tiely disappeared into the woods and Mr. Ummings then drove to Weymouth familing and notified Officer diver Houghton, who with Officer Thomas Pitzgerald, searched for the vitileties, but were unabla
to get track of them.

Mr. Cammings gut a severe sheking up and his fara was cut and clothes torn.
He describes him mas who assaulted him first as tall and slim with a heavy black beard. The other tens he ran give no distription of other then he was a short man.

found, if not fame, at least something like a fortune in it.—New York Newa.

The Evil Eye Is Niesragus.

It is a prevailing belief among the inhabitants of most of the Central American republics, especially the in diams and "Low Spaniards" of Niesragus, that after a person has been exposed to the sun or is from any cause agitated or futigued a gisneo from the eye of such a person will cause slokness or death in the one open whem it falls. The notion seems to be that the poison now animal heat escapes through the eyes, and that its effect is expecially hilghting to young infants and childrer who may be exposed to its baleful influence. The Spaniards as well as the native Indians of the countries mentioned speak of the "evil eye" as "ojn calients," or "leasted eye," and they hold, it is such dread that small children are always sent away and bahies covered with a cloth when any one approaches whe is known to be extremely tired or overheated. Besides the above, they also be lieve that intoxicated persons have the power of the "evil eye" a lanormally developed. They are taught from childhood that a person possessed with an "evil eye", "or "eje callents," can "wither with a look or break bones with a wish." Nearly all the children in those conn tries wear charms made of niligators teeth and covals as a protection.—St. Louis Republic.

cor one point the game to hight. Under skillful guldance you could work unsuspected. Now, if you'll put yourself in my hands for 86 hours, I believe we can bag the prize. What say you—is it a bargain?'

It was not exactly the road te fortune I had set out in, but it looked like a shorter out et starting. At any rate, my circumstances were desperate, and I aw m better chance to mend them.

"I accept your offer," I said.

"Come along, then, " said the stranger, rising, and having settled our scores we left the place together.

In the street he scok my arm, and after a long walk through unfrequented by streets my companion called a halt before a somber looking house, into which he admitted us with a latch key. He det he way up stairs to a shabbilly forniahed apartment, in which a dim light was burning.

We seated oursives, and my companion was beginning to unfeld his plans when a knock was heard at the door.

He held up his finger in token ef slesses.

Don't Fear the Spring If Your Blood Is Pure.

If it is not pure you will be dull not listless; too weary to get up in the morning, too tired to go to bed at night.

If it is not pure you will have blotches and pimples and all sorts of cruptions and diseases breaking through the skia.

If it is not pure there is but one thing for you to do—purify it with Dana's Sarsaparilla, the greatest blood remedy and the only great blood remedy that 19th century science has evolved.

"Dana's Sarsaparilla is a GreatBlessingtotheWorld"

Says Rev. William H. Hampton, D. D., of Moravia, N. Y., who says Rev. William II. Jampion, D. D., of subavia, R. I., who took it for hives, and was cureil perfectly, and stone, after four seasons of torment. He says that he will recommend Dana's to his parish for all blood, nerve diseases and diseases of the vital organs, and in his letter, which was written last Christmas, says that he can send no greater boon to a suffering friend than a bottle or two of Dana's Sarsaparilla.

The Hygiena of Langhter. The Hygiens of Langhtsr.

It has been apily said that there is not the remotest corner of the inite of the minimit blood vessels of the human body that does not feel some wivelet from the courulains occasioned by good, learty laugher. The life principle of the centrel man is shaken to its lanermost depths, sending new these of life and strength to the aurica, the materially tending to have good health to the persons who indulge therein. The blood moves more rapidly and conveys in different lunpression to all the organs of the body as it visits them on that particular mystle journey when the man is laughing from what it does not their times. For this reason every good, hearty laugh in which in person indulges lends to lengthen his life, conveying as it does now and distinct atimulus to the vini forces.

The strength of old belting is now renewed ur augmented so as to greatly lengthen its service. Thaccomplish this two large, hollow copper cylinders are provided, and into these steam is admitted, so that they are sivays heated. In a tank is a solution composed of beeswax, bornx, glac, elarch and molasses, prepared in equal quantities, and there are guide rollers, through which rans the leather beiting which is in process of treatment. The beit which is to be operated apan is stated into the machinu at a point where it can enter the tank, and while passing through the latter the leather receives an application of the solution. The press rollers immediately squieze the compound into the fiber of the leather, and then the heat from the cylinders uver which the being is being drawn dries line coupound. All the rollers and cylinders rest in the hearings. As represented, the application of this compound to the belt, and immediately drying, is to add strength to the fiber of the leather in a remarkable degree.

aufferer from neryoung shession, neryoung sh Allen atrects where he resided until about 1811, when he purchased of Jonathan Derby the house in which he lived the remaining years of his lite. He then commenced businesses as a trader or owner of a country store in what is now well known as the "Old Brich Stors." In this husiness he was very auccasful and accumulated a large estate. During his lite he had been honored by his townsmen with the offices of Representative to the General Court and Selectuan of his town, besides other important positions, all of which he filled with credit to hisself acd to the ashifaction of the town. He dish May 4, 1850. His wifs died Jaor, 28, 1834. It is related as an lecident of their early days that Hamahi, who became his wifs, had a stepmother, who had a daughter by a former husband sed resided in the family, and to whom she was partiel, although Hannah was about if roonthe older and the cliest daughter of the family. Now it was very catural rhat they both should have woosts at the anned time and each had their leverations. So when the descones on appeared on a Bundey's vanlug on his prancing steed, he was received at the frent door by the step-daughter and her mother, and excepted to the best room to append the excepted to go to the back sutranes where Haunah received him to the kitchen to pass the pleasant hours. But in later years Justice belanced the scales.

This is Mr. Kelley's first term, but neverthelesa the members have come to recogalee in him a man of excellent ability, keen observation, one who is quick to discern and a ready debater. This was abown on the floor not longer ago than last week, when an old member tried to "sit down on him" and his Braintree electric railrosel extention. The old member talked of stock watering and general reliforal daws that ought to be passed, that would apply to the Braintree road and all others and that his little acheme could wait. At last Mr. Kelley ac caught the speaker's eye and was recognized and when once on his leet, with wit and lumor, argumenie and facts sprinkled with oratory and good judgment, he won a decided victory in a five minutes' talk that will not soon be forgotten. GOOD AND BAD BLOOD. The Weak Point in the Spring.

MEDICINE THEOSTY. 4.

We are told that the source of three-foorthe of our diseases is in our blood; that a good purgalire there or lout times a grear will here ye is in good bushly. It this so or lee! if? It may be all right for strong, for the project people whose blood is for rick. For this people; because blood is for rick. For this people, people, then anamic people suffer from poor blood, a cearcist of red corpuctes. Nu pergative or so-called blood medicine can be plus them. "The blood is the life!"; per, but what makes the blood? Food. Good food is all that is needed to make poor blood rich. 'takkola that rich pra digected starch food, is ofter recommended by physicians for this very purpose. There is no difficult; the materiateding why it is that a could quantity of Paskola will do so much good, it is made out of marder meat leaperstant pool, starch. Is order to help the wesh clomach, it is pre-digeated. Any good pure tast; starck food will do you as much good as Paskela by you can digeat it. If you can't, nothing will do you good, except Paskola, for it is already digested.

'It makes this, pale, poor-blooded people so fat and bestley that their friends can bardly recognias them. Mr. James C. Coilia, af Fyracuse, N. Y., ceye: "Paskola is ledeed a food, and e roged week, too. I have already guised als and our-half pounds." Send for descriptive pamphiket to The Pra-Digested Food Co., 20 Heade St., New York. "The Soldier in Our Civil War."

These plates are from the Original Wood Cuts of the celebrated Frank Leslie's ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY, files of which cannot be had at any price. These Stirring. War Scenes illustrate and supplement every HISTORY OF THE WAR, and will soon be priceless. There are hundreds of War Histories, but these are the only authentic War Illustrations, and they are

The Only War Pictures which Reproduces Actual Battles.

The War Scenes of 1861-1865 were never photographed. The modern photographic processes cannot reproduce EVENTS, but only present surroundings. This METHORIAL WAR BOOK presents the actual battles in their surroundings. These SUPERB WAR PICTURES are full of life and action. Looking at them one hears
